4-Stars

Readers looking for a charming and entertaining read need look no further. Billed as a cross between Bewitched, Sex and the City and Gossip Girl, it certainly lives up to it. True emotion and plenty of heat mixes with laugh-out-loud humor to keep readers looking for

About the Author K.E. Saxon is a third-generation Texan and has been a lover of romance fiction since her first (sneaked) read of her older sister's copy of "The Flame and the Flower" by Kathleen E. Woodiwiss. She is a member of the West Houston Chapter of Romance Writer's of America and is a devoted subscriber to the Romance Divas online forum. She has two cats, a 24-year-old cockatiel, a funny, supportive husband, and an organic herb and vegetable. When she isn't in her writer's cave writing, you can find her puttering in her garden or in her kitchen trying out a new recipe. An animal (and bug) lover since before she could speak, she made pets of all kinds of critters when she was a kid growing up. Her mother even swears that she made a pet of a cockroach one time (but K.E. doesn't believe her). She likes to write funny, sexy romances.
